THE UNIVERSITY OF MAINE AT FARMINGTON

MISSION STATEMENT

As a premier teacher education and public liberal arts college for the state of Maine, the University of Maine at Farmington prepares students for engaged citizenship, enriching professional careers, and an enduring love of learning.

VALUES AND VISION

Given its history since 1864 of educating teachers and its distinctive contemporary mission as a public liberal arts college, the University of Maine at Farmington (UMF) has consistently been rooted in a vigorous tradition of education in service to the public interest. In embracing this tradition, UMF seeks to graduate individuals who will live purposeful, ethical, and personally rewarding lives, and who will strengthen the social fabric of the communities they inhabit in Maine and beyond. We recognize that success depends upon our ability to preserve continued, affordable access to higher education.

The University's focus is undergraduate education in a residential setting. UMF also provides limited graduate education and welcomes commuter students and continuing education opportunities where regional and statewide needs correspond with areas of academic strength in the University. Through its focus on high quality academic programs in the arts and sciences, teacher education, and selected professional fields, the University challenges students to be active citizens in a campus community that helps them find and express with confidence their own voices, teaches them the humility to seek wisdom from others, and prepares them for ongoing explorations of how knowledge can be put to use for their personal benefit and the common good.

Across our programs, academic rigor matters, as does a commitment to experience-based learning that enlivens theoretical understandings of different disciplines and the relationship of those studies to a rapidly changing world. An ethic of civic-mindedness and individual and collective duty to foster positive social change is realized through the practice of liberal learning and a recognition that innovation, collaboration, and service with community partners is fundamental to the educational enterprise.

UMF's sense of place is shaped by the aesthetic, environmental, recreational, and intellectual heritage of the western Maine region. The bounty of the landscape and the locale contributes materially to a range of academic fields at UMF, to the exciting diversity of the extra- and co-curricular life of the University, and to our reciprocal relationships in support of the important work of our neighbors in western Maine. To fulfill its complementary responsibilities to the region and to the State, the University also reaches out to national and international domains to broaden students' educational experience and assure that they are well prepared for employment and citizenship in contexts that are richly diverse and global.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

The caps, gowns and hoods seen today have evolved from academic clothing worn in the Middle Ages, when universities were founded. They indicate the highest academic degree attained, the major field of study, and the college or university attended.

The modern academic costume worn in the United States is based on an intercollegiate code established in 1895. Most gowns are black, but in the past few years more institutions have permitted the wearing of college colors. The bachelor's gown has long, pointed sleeves, is untrimmed, and is worn closed. The master's gown, worn either open or closed, has long, crescent-shaped sleeves. The doctor's gown has velvet panels down the front and around the neck, and velvet bars on the bell-shaped sleeves. The velvet is black or the color of the wearer's major field of study.

The head covering is either the mortarboard or the Oxford cap. The tassel on the cap may be black or of a color indicating the degree. The doctor's tassel is usually gold. The tassel is worn over the left front quarter of the cap or mortarboard once the degree has been awarded.

The hood, which drapes over the back of the gown, dates back to the 12th century when it was intended as a head covering or shoulder cape. Its length, width and color of trim, and the colors of the lining, denote the wearer's highest academic achievement. Linings, which are exposed in the center of the hood as it lies over the back of the gown, indicate the colors of the degree-granting institution. The velvet trim indicates the major field of study.

The colors denoting specific academic fields, as established by the American Council on Education, include:

Arts, Letters, Humanities	White
Business Administration	Tan
Economics	Copper
Education	Light Blue
Engineering	Orange
Fine Arts	Brown
Home Economics	Maroon
Journalism	Crimson
Law	Purple
Library Science	Lemon
Medicine	Green
Music	Pink
Speech	Silver Gray
Philosophy	Blue
Physical Education	Sage Green
Psychology	Gold
Public Administration	Peacock Blue
Public Health	Salmon
Science	Golden Yellow
Social Work	Citron
Social Science	Cream
Theology	Scarlet

GLOBAL EXPERIENCE / INTERNATIONAL SASH

Worn by students, faculty and staff, these sashes represent the flag of the host country or U.S. state for which a student has participated in a global experience, or a faculty or staff member has participated in a formal exchange and/or led a travel course. Sashes may also signify the home country of international students, faculty and staff.

Australia; Canada; China; Costa Rica; Cyprus; France; Germany; Guatemala; Iceland; Italy; Japan; Peru; Russia; Scotland; Senegal; Slovakia; Tanzania; United States; Washington, D.C.

THE ACADEMIC PROCESSION

The Academic Procession descends from the Middle Ages when the first European universities were founded. The order used in today's procession at UMF is as follows. At the front of the line is the University Marshal, Dr. Nicole Kellett, who bears the University Mace. The Marshal is followed in the procession by three flag bearers who are officers of the Senior Class, the President of UMF, representatives of the University of Maine System Board of Trustees, the UMF Provost, honored guests, speakers and other members of the platform party. This group is followed by the faculty marshals, the faculty, the senior class marshals, Master's degree candidates, and Bachelor's degree candidates.

THE UNIVERSITY MEDALLION

The official UMF medallion was donated to the University in 2003 by President Theodora J. Kalikow. The medallion bears the official University seal. The official Town of Farmington seal is on the reverse, symbolizing the close and productive relationship enjoyed by the University and the town. The medallion is worn by the UMF President at Commencement and other occasions when academic regalia is required.

THE UNIVERSITY MACE

The University Mace, carried by the University Marshal, includes the current UMF seal as well as a historic seal from the State Normal School. It was designed and crafted by Arthur H. Mitchell of Temple, Maine and donated by him to the University in memory of his brother, Albert R. Mitchell, class of 1954, Professor of Geography at UMF from 1963 to 1992. The small maces carried by the Faculty Marshals were crafted and donated by Arthur and Donna Mitchell in honor of their daughter, Margaret May Mitchell, class of 1999.
